

'Uglification' -- Our Growing Dump Heaps

GROWING MOUNTAINS OF GARBAGE AND TRASH

(UPI TELEPHOTO)

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following is the first of a three-part series by Joseph L. Myler, UPI senior editor in Washington dealing with the problem of the nation's growing dump heaps.

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We have been warned: our garbage, our junk, our rubble threaten to bury us.

We have devoted much thought to pollution of the air we breathe and to the water we drink. We worry about the rising tide of noise which assaults our ears and almost threatens sanity.

But we have paid little attention, comparatively, to what nice-minded people call solid wastes.

Yet solid wastes in their myriad forms—everything from animal dung heaps and city garbage to universal litter and abandoned autos—are the worst of the pollutants.

They pollute not only air and water but the landscape. They add "uglification" to the mess of horrors man has contrived for himself. They also constitute a reckless waste of irreplaceable resources.

If not a tribute, they are at least a monument to our affluence, our technological ingenuity, and our "heritage of waste" in a use-and-discard society.

As technology presents us with ever more conveniently packaged "consumer items" and as man's numbers mushroom, the rubbish pile grows ever higher. It is, in fact, growing faster than the population.

Special

Charles C. Johnson Jr., administrator of the new Consumer Protection and Environmental Health Service of the Public Health Service, states it this way:

"Growing mountains of garbage and trash threaten to bury us in our own waste products."

Water Crisis

They already are hurting our health. They have destroyed large areas of living space which nature had allotted the creatures of the wild. They have spread "scenic blight" throughout the countryside.

They have contributed their large bit to what Johnson says is a rapidly approaching drinking water crisis.

It used to be when the nation was young that no harm was done if you just threw away something you no longer wanted. If you just spread around your garbage.

But as the National Academy of Sciences pointed out in a special report, "as the earth becomes more crowded, there is no longer an 'away.' One person's trash basket is another's living space."

According to Johnson, this country now is trying to deal with 3.5 billion tons of solid wastes every year. This includes 1.5 billion tons of animal excreta, 550 million tons of what's left over from the marketable parts of farm crops, 1.1 billion tons of mineral wastes, 110 million tons of industrial trash, and 250 million tons of household, commercial, and municipal wastes.

These figures do not include the millions of automobiles junked each year. It has been estimated that the car discard rate will reach eight million a year by 1975.

In addition to all this is the unguessable quantity (certainly in the billions of tons) of annually accumulated debris from the demolition of buildings and highways to make way for new ones.

Just to get rid of household, municipal, and industrial refuse costs about $4.5 billion a year. Of all municipal costs, this is exceeded only by what we pay for schools and roads.

But 85 per cent of this annual expenditure goes solely for collection, with only about 15 per cent spent for ultimate disposal. According to one estimate, the United States would have to spend another $3.75 billion over the next five years to provide a suitable system of waste disposal.

As things stand, according to Charles Johnson of the Environmental Health Service, we "have not yet figured out what to do with the refuse that litters our countryside."

Open Dumping

More than half of the nation's communities over 5,000 in population dispose of their wastes in a fashion described by the public health service as "improper." Open dumping accounts for nearly 80 per cent

Arab Rocket Raid Slams Jerusalem

By United Press International

Arab terrorists today launched their first rocket attack against Jerusalem since the 1967 Middle East War, firing three Soviet-made missiles that narrowly missed a crowded hotel and a hospital. There were no casualties or damage.

Israeli authorities said two of the rockets exploded on a pile of gravel outside the 400-bed Judea Gardens Hotel, jammed with both tourists and Israelis. The third missile slammed into a field near the St. Simon Hospital for the Crippled.

Israeli officials in Jerusalem said they had been unable to find the suspected rocket launching sites. The targets were about two miles from the center of the city and three miles from the El Aqsa Mosque.

Three Soviet-built rockets also slammed today into Beisan, a city of 12,500, four miles west of the Jordan River in the Beisan Valley, a military spokesman said. The rockets exploded in open areas and there were no casualties.

Arabs fired the rockets from positions across the Jordan River from launchers with a new type device, military experts said.

Highly placed Israeli political sources at the same time said Israel will bring worldwide pressure to bear on the Arab states to arrange a "modern day Jewish exodus" from them.

They said Israel would respond to Iraq's execution Monday of two Jews among 15 convicted spies by employing political rather than military tactics.

In their view, Middle East tensions whipped by the burning of the El Aqsa Mosque and the almost daily guerrilla attacks and air raids are now at flashpoint.

The Israeli government said it would convene an emergency session of the Knesset (parliament) Thursday to discuss the plight of Iraq Jews. A government spokesman said Jews in Arab countries "are being oppressed and humiliated and held as hostages."

Israel's investigation into the El Aqsa Mosque fire appeared about to be postponed pending completion of preparations for the trial of Michael Dennis William Rohan, the Australian accused of having started the blaze.

In Cairo, the newspaper Al-Ahram said President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt has joined King Faisal of Saudi Arabia in urging a summit conference of all Islamic nations on the El Aqsa Mosque fire.

The Associated Press reported that Israel threatened the Arabs with more retaliation for sabotage Monday night as the Arab nations moved closer to a summit meeting to discuss the situation in Jerusalem.

Israeli Transport Minister Moshe Carmel, after learning that a bomb had exploded Monday in an Israeli shipping company office in London, warned that Arabs could not "sit in safety in their various offices throughout the world unless safety prevails in the offices of Israeli companies."

"Israel views with the utmost gravity any plots against her lines of communication and the facilities of her transportation companies throughout the world," Carmel said. "Anyone trying to scheme against them is likely to pay a stiff price."

The transport minister, whose statement was distributed by the Israeli government's press office in Jerusalem, also pledged that "every Israeli passenger anywhere will be protected, as will all Israeli lines of communication and transportation facilities the world over."

One woman was hospitalized after a small time bomb went off in the second-floor office of the Zim Company on Regent Street, shattering windows. The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said in Beirut that it had planted the bomb in retaliation for the fire in the Al Aqsa mosque in Jerusalem. Scotland Yard said it was investigating the guerrilla organization's claim.

Police said workers in nearby offices had seen six men "of Arab appearance" walk into the building half an hour before the explosion.

It was the fourth bombing in three months of a London company associated with Israel. In Cairo, where foreign ministers of the Arab nations were meeting, prospects increased for an Arab summit meeting to discuss the tense situation in the Moslem world following the fire last week at the Al Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem.

Egypt's semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram reported that President Gamal Abdel Nasser had agreed to the calling of an Islamic conference instead of an exclusively Arab meeting. This could provide a way around the objections of some governments to an exclusively Arab summit.

Talk of a Jihad, or holy war, against Israel continued to reverberate in the Arab world.

and Hebrew Bibles, and a copy of the Arab Koran, sit on the witness stand. Israeli Attorney General Muir Shanger said at the opening session Monday that he will probably file formal charges by the end of the week against Michael D. Rohan, 28, an Australian accused of setting fire to the mosque. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

Ray's Surplus Brings Criticism

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — A surplus, generally a boon to budget makers, has caused some criticism at City Hall.

Yesterday, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan announced that the city had a surplus of $119,435 in its budget, the bulk of which came from a sales tax check delivered to the city on Dec. 30, 1968.

Garraghan said that the sales tax check was for $170,000, some $90,000 above budget estimates. The Common Council approved Garraghan's budget on Jan. 7, part of which was a surplus item of $15,701.

Some Unaware

Several aldermen, when questioned by The Freeman, allowed that they weren't aware of the extra $90,000 surplus when they voted on the budget.

John Machione, the lone Republican in the Council, said he was aware of "a lot of money hidden in the budget" but did not have any specific figures at the time he voted. Machione had estimated an extra $125,000 in the budget on the night of the budget vote.

Alderman Edward Norton, (D-11th Ward), chairman of the Finance Committee, said that the aldermen knew about the surplus and said it was good fiscal policy to carry a surplus.

No Flim-Flam: Ray

The mayor allowed that he hadn't informed the aldermen of the extra money but said, "I wasn't trying to flim-flam anybody. My budget was set Dec. 1. The extra money will be used to reduce taxes in the 1970 budget."

Tyrrell's View

The Republican candidate for mayor, James Tyrrell, indicated that he felt the money should have been used to reduce the 1969 budget, not the 1970 budget.

"The budget should reflect the expenditures of the city," he said. "Any surplus should be applied to the real estate tax burden. I would hope that my administration would operate without any surpluses."

Tyrrell said he was "not surprised" about the $119,435 surplus "considering the administration had indicated there was 'fat' in the budget at the Dec. 26 public hearing."

Tyrrell said he would have more to say after he saw the audit report. Tyrrell was asked if he expected any difficulty in securing a copy of the report. "I certainly expect to see it," he said. "I would hope that the administration would cooperate with the three candidates now seeking the office of mayor."

The other two candidates, Francis R. Koenig, the Democrat-Liberal and Bernard Singer, the Conservative, were brief in their remarks. Koenig said he had been out of city government for two years and had not been a party to policy-making decisions.

Singer said the money shouldn't be taken out of the taxpayers' pockets. "I was on the board of education for five years and we didn't carry any surpluses. We tried to balance the budget," he said.

Put to Good Use

Garraghan said the extra $90,000 was placed in an interest drawing account in a local bank. "The money was put to good use. No one need worry about that," he said.

Garraghan said the problem originally arose because of the city's inexperience in computing state sales tax revenues. "We received $80,000 in June and the state had indicated we would get about the same amount in December," Garraghan said. "We estimated $80,000 in drawing up the 1969 budget."

The total sales tax check for 1968, a period from March to January, was $634,029, according to the city treasurer's office. This is almost double what the city had budgeted for 1968, a figure of $325,000.

This year (1969) Garraghan has budgeted $982,000 in sales tax revenues but that figure is expected to run over a million dollars.

"What we've been trying to do over the past four years," the mayor said "is to establish a long range fiscal policy. We want to maintain a certain level on city taxes instead of having them drastically jump up and down from year to year."

As far as the budget surplus, the mayor said, "The 1969 budget was set and we weren't going to change it. We'll make allowances for the extra money in next year's budget."

American Plane Down in N. Viet

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command disclosed today that a Marine F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was lost over North Vietnam last Tuesday while escorting a reconnaissance plane. The two crewmen are missing.

It was the first American plane reported lost over North Vietnam since June 5 and sixth since U.S. bombing of North Vietnam halted last Nov. 1. Although the bombing stopped, regular reconnaissance flights have continued.

The U.S. Command said the plane "was reported missing while escorting an unarmed RF4 reconnaissance aircraft near the demilitarized zone."

A spokesman said other planes in the flight saw no evidence of enemy action and the loss was attributed to "unknown causes."

Meanwhile, hard fighting broke out again Monday in the rolling foothills southwest of Da

Nang, and military spokesmen said at least 138 North Vietnamese and 12 Americans had been killed and 97 Americans wounded.

The fighting flared up again less than two miles from Hiep Duc, a district capital 32 miles southwest of Da Nang which Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor visited Monday. Military spokesmen said Resor got within six miles of the fighting and the "usual security precautions were taken."

Two companies of U.S. Marines from the 7th Regiment were hit hard when they came under heavy machine gun and rifle fire while sweeping a ridge.

Eleven Marines were killed and 41 wounded in the fighting, which lasted from early afternoon until "the remaining enemy withdrew under cover of darkness," U.S. headquarters said.

It added that enemy losses were not known yet.

Meanwhile, two miles to the

BULLETIN Tricia Nixon Admitted to Walter Reed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tricia Nixon, 23-year-old daughter of the President, was admitted to Walter Reed Army Medical Center today for observation.

A spokesman at the hospital said Miss Nixon was admitted at about 10 a.m. EDT. No other details on her condition were disclosed.

Tricia returned to Washington late Sunday after spending 10 days with her family at their West Coast vacation home.

southwest, a reconnaissance patrol from the 196th Light Infantry Brigade flushed another North Vietnamese force, and about 250 American infantrymen battled them for two hours.

The U.S. Command said 74 enemy were killed, many of them by artillery and helicopter gunships, while American casualties were one killed and 49 wounded.

U.S. headquarters said soldiers of the 196th Brigade killed 12 more North Vietnamese in another small skirmish in the area, seven of the Americans were wounded.

Meanwhile, Resor made a brief helicopter trip from Hiep Duc to a mountaintop American patrol base nearby called Landing Zone Center and there met Lt. Col. Robert B. Bacon of Falls Church, Va., commander of a battalion of the 196th Brigade, and his executive officer,

Maj. Richard Waite of Reynoldsville, Pa.

The enlisted men in one of Bacon's three companies, after five days of hard fighting and heavy losses, had refused on Sunday to move out once more against the enemy. But Waite and Sgt. Okey Blankenship of Panther, W. Va., visited them, and after some tough talk from the sergeant, the GIs picked up their rifles and went back into action.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said today there would be no formal investigation of the brief rebellion.

"They went back into combat," he said. "The thing was well handled. The unit the company belonged to was aware of it and corrective action was taken."

The company was reportedly still in the field, but since Sunday has met little resistance.

Man Crushed In Gardiner; Not Identified

By WALTER S. CLARK

GARDINER—State Police BCI investigators today were endeavoring to establish the identity of a man who was crushed to death at the intersection of Routes 208 and 44-55 in this township, under the dual rear wheels of a truck he had allegedly taken without permission of the owner.

Man, 2 Sons Injured in Thruway Crash

NEW PALTZ—A Bronx man and his two sons were injured at 4:30 p.m. Monday when the car in which they were riding reportedly ran into the rear of a truck on the Thruway about 7 miles south of Kingston.

Trooper J. B. Fox of Troop T reported a car operated by Joseph Gutierrez of 54 East 179th Street, the Bronx, collided with the rear of a truck operated by 40-year-old John Harrington of Selkirk and owned by Dorn's Transportation Co.

Gutierrez suffered head and shoulder injuries. His son, Joseph, 9, and another son, Michael, 8, both sustained bruises and contusions. Joseph received a possible broken right leg. The injured were taken from the scene of the crash to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance Service.

ed at the scene of the fatality with state troopers from Highland, said an autopsy showed the victim died of a fractured skull, crushed chest and multiple internal hemorrhages.

The body was taken to the county morgue in Kingston Hospital pending identification.

State Police Sgt. Stanley Kowalik said the man, described as white and about 55 years of age, was driving the dump truck south on Route 208 when he started to make a left turn to go east on Route 44-55 shortly before noon yesterday.

The vehicle went out of control, crossed to the left shoulder of the highway and went up an incline. The door swung open and the driver toppled out. Authorities said the rear dual wheels passed over his body and the truck continued on for about 30 feet where it hit an embankment where the motor stalled.

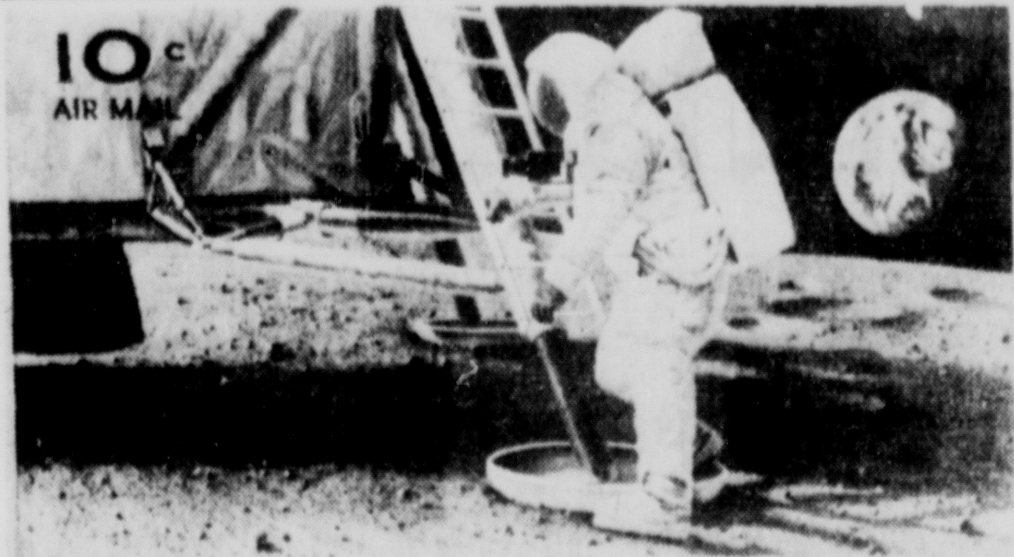

The truck rolled backwards and passed over the man's body a second time.

Coroner Keyser said the man was pronounced dead at the scene.

Sergeant Kowalik said the truck was owned by Andrew Noviski of Durlandville near Goshen in Orange County. He reportedly told authorities the truck had been taken without permission, and he said he did not know the victim.

Fingerprints and a description of the man, who has a large scar on his left leg were sent to the State Police Laboratory for examination.

It was Ulster County's 33rd traffic fatality of 1969.

8 Pay Fines on Drugs

TOWN OF ULSTER—Eight of the 24 persons arrested in narcotics raids on Saturday have pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges and paid fines of $50 on each count before Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

The cases against 16 others including 10 pushers of drugs and narcotics are pending in County Court or before Judge Reilly.

The defendants who pleaded guilty and were fined were Dietrich Eckhard Werner, 27, of 178 Zena Road, Kingston, possession of implements capable of administering drugs and criminal possession of dangerous drugs, 4th degree, fined $50 on each count.

Barton David Bass, 38, and Carol Lee Bass, 28, of Woodland Valley Road, Phoenicia; Leslie Gaye Edmonds, 18, also of Phoenicia and Jeanne Valier Werner, 22, of 178 Zena Road, Kingston, each paid a fine of $50 after pleading guilty to possessing dangerous drugs, fourth degree.

Three other defendants charged with possessing implements — needles or pipes used to administer drugs, and criminal possession of dangerous drugs — 4th degree, pleaded guilty to both charges and paid fines of $50 on each count. They were Brigit O'Hara Refregier, 21, Route 1, Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock; Alfred Eugene Robinson, 26, 755 Ohayo Mt. Road, Hurley and Julia Grace Welch, 26, of the Woodstock Motel, Woodstock. Most of the defendants had marijuana in their possession.

Blowback in Car

Fire caused by a blowback in the carburetor heavily damaged a car owned by Isom Clinton of 86 Farrelly Street shortly before 12:30 p.m. Monday.

Firemen from Central Station responded to a call and extinguished the flames that enveloped the front of the vehicle with dry chemical and a booster stream from Engine 1. Deputy Chief Harry Sills was in charge.

Hurley Trespass Law

HURLEY—The town board Monday passed a "no trespass" law and members indicated they are considering a law that would prohibit "White Lake" gatherings such as the recent rock festival in Sullivan County that drew more than 400,000 fans.

The new law, under consideration by the board for the past few months, would impose a $50 fine plus 30 days in jail for trespassing on land without the consent of the owner.

A provision was included to make it unnecessary for owners to post their land or sign a complaint. According to the law, trespassers may be arrested on the visual proof of a constable or other law officer.

The law is to take effect as soon as possible.

Mrs. Mary Darrow, speaking for the board, said councilmen also considered passage of a law that would prohibit mass gatherings such as the recent Woodstock Ventures' weekend rock show at White Lake. She said the present law covered the normal hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with the dump closed board felt other regulations are Saturday.

Hodge Asks State Denial Of Charges

KINGSTON—Reiterating his charges of "brutality and inhumane treatment at Catskill Reformatory, Everett Hodge president of the Ulster County branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has asked Correction Commissioner Paul D. McGinnis to deny a number of specific charges.

Hodge also makes the following two demands: employment of Puerto Ricans and blacks at the policy-making level and in administrative and supervisory positions and, an independent investigation of brutality charges and "a callous indifference to the state mandated rehabilitation program for inmates."

Hodge asks that records of two inmates be made available and asks the commissioner to deny that newspapers are banned at Catskill Reformatory. Puerto Ricans are not permitted to write letters to families and friends in Spanish and that a certain prisoner was beaten, gassed and placed in a dark cell for two days.

Arrest Youths On Charges of Stolen Property

KINGSTON—Three 17-year-old youths were arrested today by Deputy Sheriff James Freese on warrants charging them with possessing stolen property. The trio was released pending an appearance in the Town of Ulster magistrate court on Aug. 29.

Freese identified the youths as Richard Breithaupt, of 109 Bridge Street and Robert T. West, of 1 Malden Avenue, both Saugerties and Douglas H. Low, of 22 Sprague Drive, Valley Stream.

According to the deputy, the youths were found in possession of a tape recorder and child's clothing reported taken from a car owned by Mrs. Vernelle Johnson of 186 Pine Street. The alleged theft occurred on Aug. 15 in the Montgomery Ward parking lot.

Warrants for the arrests were issued by Esopus Town Justice Charles Montafia.

Milton Man Jailed After Two Slashed

MILTON—Harry Lee Whaley, 38, of Route 9W, this village, was in the county jail today facing two charges of second degree assault stemming from an alleged slashing of two men outside the Chimes Bar and Grill.

Deputy Sheriff James Freese arrested Whaley Monday and accused him of cutting Walter Dirks, 21, of Milton, during a fight last Friday night. The other second degree assault charge had been filed by Marlboro Town Constables who accused the defendant of cutting Joseph Pendino of this community.

Freese said Dirks was taken to Benedictine Hospital in serious condition suffering severe lacerations of the left arm, wrist and stomach. Pendino was taken to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie where he was treated for lacerations of the right hand. The weapon used was not identified by authorities.

Whaley is held in $4,000 bail pending a preliminary hearing.

Migrant Faces Hearing on Stabbing Charge

MILTON—Accused of stabbing another migrant laborer during an argument in a cabin on Willow Tree Road here, James Rhodes, 45, faces a preliminary hearing Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Town of Marlborough court on a second degree assault charge.

State Police said Rhodes is charged with knifing Willie Joseph Spivey on the left side of his neck during a fight Sunday. Spivey was taken to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie where 21 sutures were taken to close the wounds. Spivey was later released from the hospital.

Highland troopers conducted the investigation after receiving a complaint that a man had been attacked with a knife.

Queen Berengaria, wife of Richard the Lionhearted who ruled England from 1189 to 1199, was never in England.

Rhinebeck Will Draft Request for School Aid

RHINEBECK—The Rhinebeck Board of Education Monday night voted to draft a resolution to the State of New York Department of Education, asking for more state aid.

Hans Boehm, vice president of the board, will draft the resolution. He suggested the move. No action on state aid was otherwise taken by the board, second grades in the Bulkeley School starting next week, but the board approved a motion to allot money for repairs to the Bulkeley School. It was planned to have all first and second graders will be moved temporarily to the Chancellor Livingston Elementary School.

A resolution was passed expressing sympathy on the death of Maxwell Knapp, who retired from teaching in June after more than 40 years in the profession.

An organization meeting of professional staff will be held at 1 p. m. next Tuesday, and school will open Sept. 3.

Charge Withdrawn

Narcotics Crackdown

The mass roundup of suspected narcotics pushers and addicts in the Woodstock and Phoenicia areas illustrates the time-consuming job of hunting down the outlets for this illicit drug traffic in our midst.

Some five months of undercover work went into the arrests. The raid was first planned in April by local and state police authorities and undercover agents were forced to pose as drug addicts, buyers and sellers before the crackdown. This kind of necessary but plodding investigation makes the job incredibly difficult.

The causal and widespread use of drugs in open defiance of drug laws at the recent Music Festival at White Lake in Sullivan County should open the eyes of many parents to this most baffling and destructive problem confronting our modern society. In flagrant violation of the law, Marijuana, LSD, barbiturates and other drugs were hawked by pushers in the fields and from cars along the road to the young people who deem it smart to try anything once. Experimenting with drugs for a "trip" may be popular with the contemporary generation, but the principal danger is that in many cases the experimenter will go still further for "kicks" and so on to addiction.

Access is a stimulus to addiction. Harsh penalties must be imposed on the pushers if we are to prevent a national tragedy.

Women Suffrage

Throughout the country today, women are marking the beginning of their 50th year as voting citizenry. It was 49 years ago today that the 19th amendment was ratified, giving the women the right to vote.

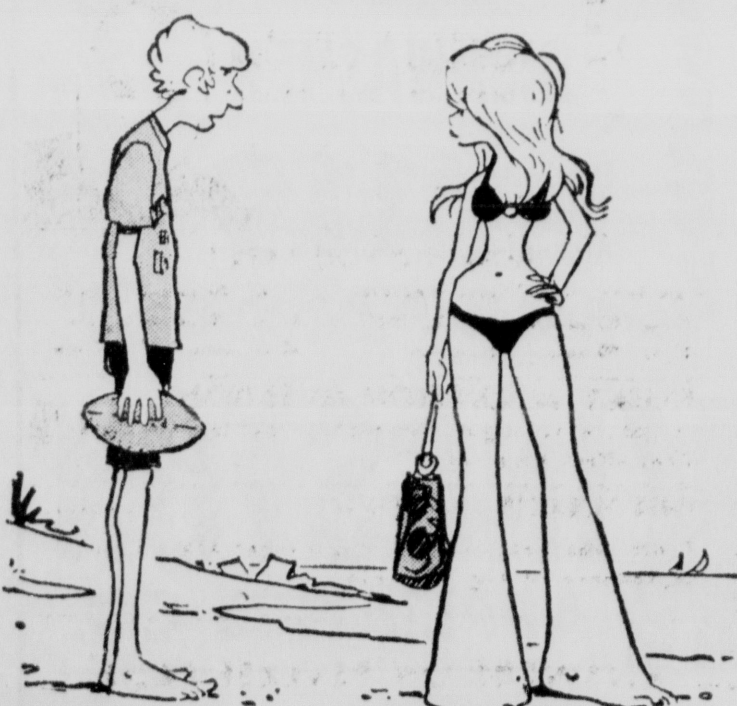

In 1840, a women's right movement was started in the United States and their first convention was held in Seneca Falls, N. Y. Women decided it is their duty to secure for themselves their sacred right to elective franchise. It took 72 years to achieve the goal. Many states, however, granted women the franchise before Congress passed the 19th Amendment.

With the passing of the 19th Amendment, the work of the National American Woman Suffrage Association was finished and the work of the League of Women Voters was begun. Knowing that a larger task lay ahead, suffragette leaders formed the League before dissolving the Association. The League's aim was to help the newly enfranchised voters achieve the political goals for which women wanted to vote in the first place. In a few years and impressive role of victories was chalked up in the field of child welfare, election laws and education. By the end of 1922, some 60 measures in 28 states had been enacted in relation to the legal status of women.

The Kingston League of Women Voters was instituted in 1959. A non-partisan organization, its purpose is to promote political responsibility through the informed and active participation of citizens in government. Members study selected government issues on the local, state and national levels, reach consensus, decide on action and inform the public on their findings. The League takes positions only on issues.

Hungary is about to establish a commercial office in New York, leaving only East Germany and Albania of the Communist states in Europe without such an office. Its purpose is to promote trade, which last year amounted to $11.2 million exports and $3.8 million in imports.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Oh, nothing—it's just that this is the first time I've ever seen you without your bell bottoms!"

"Somebody Strike a Vein?"

Henry J. Taylor Says Government Land-Hoarding

Behind the scenes a great government land snafu remains tied up in enough red tape to wrap a mummy.

"We're in a nation wide land lottery," admits Interior Department expert William H. Schofield. A tremendous land speculation whirls the taxpayers' opportunity skyward. We taxpaying peasants could be handed a multibillion-dollar bonanza from our surplus lands. But bureaucratic inertia and a refusal to take responsibility leaves our billions as frozen as if they were in the Arctic wastes.

Much government land is needed. Even more will be needed for recreational and conservation purposes. But once the government pours the taxpayer's money into land it simply stays there — across the years and even for a century, no matter how obsolete the original purpose.

As a result, the potential recovery from the ridiculous surpluses is nearly incredible. The few sales made are hardly a drop in the bucket. Today all but 15 per cent of Arizona is federally owned. The government owns 80 per cent of Idaho. A full 96 per cent of Alaska, the Union's largest state, more than twice the size of Texas, is federally owned.

The Defense Department alone now has $38.4 billion of our money tied up in its land holdings at home and abroad. It controls an inconceivable 27.6 million — yes, million — acres in the United States. It controls 4.3 million acres in California alone. Incredibly, this one Washington Department's worldwide holdings cover more than the total acreage of Delaware, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Maryland, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Vermont combined.

What you really encounter in all this is not government land-hoarding but government land-hoarding. And now along comes the land boom. What are the bureaucrats waiting for?

Let me give you some samples indicating the taxpayers' opportunity, obtained from all over the country.

For 20 years the national average value of raw land has been rising at the rate of more than 10 per cent a year. The average price of a single acre of farmland has tripled. It increased another 10 per cent during the past year and is at an all-time high. Some Midwest crop-property buyers are offering about a third more than only two years ago. Some California land prices are up 60 per cent.

Buyers wanting homesites are offering triple the 1949 price for the average single-family-house site. Among extremes, a single acre in sections of Houston, Texas, that brought $20,000 only 10 years ago now goes for them $90,000 to $220,000.

Industrial-site prices have likewise tripled. So have selected city sites. To indicate how unprecedentedly attractive the speculative boom prices are, not long ago the Robert Goelitz estate sold a piece of property on New York City's Fifth Avenue. The family had held it for generations. The title to the property went back to Queen Anne. The Goelitz' deed predated the time when New York's streets bore numbers. Fifth Avenue, in fact, was then officially called Center Lane. But the Goelitzes have sold it now — because the buyer paid an incredible $350 a square foot.

Some Arizona acres, suitable for recreational purposes, that would recover for us taxpaying peasants $3 an acre in 1949 would now bring us $20,000 in the category of resorts. In southern Vermont I find that the Arizona equivalents have ballooned from $25 an acre to $2,500 in only the past five years.

It is high time that the bureaucrats remembered that when Congress enacted the Commission on the Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government many of the nation's most distinguished real estate men and specialists were enlisted to tabulate the excess government land holdings. Their work took two years. They turned up government land-hoarding on a scale and over a period of years that amazed them all — and said so in the official report to Congress.

Every member of President Nixon's Cabinet has an immense opportunity (and duty) to serve us taxpayers by refusing to allow the bureaucrats under him to stall, pass the buck and utilize the red tape any longer. Instead, let each department, here and now, and in the name of common sense, help shore up the solvency of the country.

Prototype House for $10,000, Thanks to Space Engineers

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — On the small Rincon Indian reservation north of San Diego stands a brand new prototype house which ought to stir everyone concerned with the nation's headlong push toward a population of 300 million by the year 2000.

To the naked eye, at a little distance, it looks like a conventional, even old-fashioned adobe ranch house with a Spanish-style red tile roof. Actually, it could help to revolutionize the housing industry.

The big news about it is that it is the work of 12 aerospace engineers who were eager to show what could be done through applying to the civilian scene some of the key technologies developed in pursuing the remarkable space program.

They have turned out a house that, as designed with three bedrooms and a two-stall garage, could sell for $10,000 if produced in substantial volume. If made somewhat more compact, it is estimated the selling price could be brought to around $6,000.

The prototype is almost wholly a thing of composite materials, principally fiberglass and resins (for bonding). Resins are similarly used to bond metal surfaces in today's aircraft construction. They are also vital to the heat shield of the Apollo spacecraft.

Other engineers have looked at the Rincon model and pronounced it sound and durable, perhaps more resistant to California's occasional earthquakes than anything that could be built.

The new house is conventional in style because the Indians leaders were given their choice and that was it.

What the aerospace engineers have done is to simulate adobe, tile, wood and other surfaces which mask the fiberglass composite. This reporter has seen the simulated surfaces and all have the look of the real thing. Evidently the composite can be made to resemble any building or decorative material.

The Rincon experiment is a bellwether in the use of aerospace technologies in earthbound civilian realms. But in California other space engineers are trying to apply their techniques and modes of thinking to the problems of pollution, and there is one cluster of specialists prepared to apply space expertise to almost any imaginable earthly challenge.

The 12 engineers who worked up the Rincon prototype got off and moving because two one-time Yale law school classmates, Ray Lamontagne and Alan Novak, were looking for a chance to implement programs in various fields that seem desperately to need what they call "development technologies."

They formed Material Systems Corp., found a businessman, Joseph Elman, to head it, and put the 12 aerospace experts to work on the house problem.

Starting only last September, these men threw into the task their average 20 years' experience in space materials' breakthroughs. Their results clearly offer great promise.

Everything in the model is of composite except the core bathroom facilities. The company plans to erect soon a small factory on the Rincon reservation to prepare materials for further construction.

The word is getting about. A New York construction firm has placed an order for siding made of MSC's composite. Architects and others are traipsing to Rincon to study the prototype.

With overhead, start-up costs and the materials pioneering cranked in, the adobe house at Rincon actually cost $150,000. But Lamontagne and Novak, who have a varied background in public service, insist an ultimate selling price range of $6,000 to $10,000 is reasonable for similar houses in standard production.

Whatever the future of this particular prototype, it is a ringing response to those who say space engineers cannot cut it in the earthbound world.

Drew Pearson Says Study Reveals Deficiencies In South Vietnamese Army

WASHINGTON — The Army has completed a secret study which could upset President Nixon's plan to pull more combat troops out of Vietnam. This disturbing document warns bluntly that the South Vietnamese army lacks the leadership, logistics and organization to take over the fighting from American troops.

Too many commanders, the study states, are still chosen more for their political connections than for their military competence. Officers with good political credentials will often ignore orders from superiors who may not travel in the right circles.

The supply system is so snafued that essentials often don't reach the troops in the field. Some supplies get siphoned into the black market; some are simply misrouted. What gets through is so meager that combat commanders frequently avoid combat rather than expend their supplies. They're afraid the supplies may never be replaced.

At the enlisted level, South Vietnamese soldiers often are forced to steal food from the peasants, which is the wrong way to gain friends in the Viet Cong-ridden countryside. Many men desert not because they're unwilling to fight but because they need to feed themselves and their families.

The South Vietnamese army has some crack units whose officers and men are as good as any in Asia. The Ranger battalions, for example, have proved themselves under fire. But the most units, according to the secret study, the leadership is so poor and is so slow that they are far from ready to replace the Americans.

Russian Provocation. Grim evidence has reached Washington that Russia is preparing for continued hostility along the remote Sinking border. Intelligence reports indicate, however, that the Kremlin is divided over how far to push the fighting against the Chinese.

There now seems to be little doubt that the Russians provoked the incidents. They selected the Sinking border where the Chinese are the most vulnerable. Not only do the Russians have swifter access to the border, but the mountain tribes in Sinkiang are anti-Chinese.

Some Red army marshals have urged using the border incidents as a pretext for knocking out the Chinese nuclear works at Lop Nor less than 200 miles inside Sinkiang. The majority in the Kremlin, however, are reported to be opposed to all-out war with China. It fears a Soviet attack deep inside China would only arouse the 700 million population and unite it against Russia.

At present, there is a strong pro-Soviet faction in China. The Kremlin's strategy, apparently, is to provoke trouble on the border and create tension inside China, hoping this will cause the downfall of the aging Mao Tse-tung. Then the pro-Soviet forces might get a chance to seize control of the Peking government.

Meanwhile, reinforcements have been rushed to the border and the local populace is receiving civil defense training. Throughout Russia, an anti-Chinese propaganda campaign is also preparing the people for continued trouble.

Note: Russia has been trying quietly to stop the Arab artillery attacks and commando raids on Israel. The Russians have enough trouble with the Chinese in the Far East, so they don't want the Arabs to involve them in another crisis now in the Middle East. The Russians have a historical aversion to getting embroiled on two fronts at the same time. So they are using their influence in Arab capitals, particularly Cairo, to keep the Arabs as peaceful as possible.

Headlines and Footnotes. Two of the top ladies in government — interstate Commerce Chairwoman Virginia Mae Brown and Federal Maritime Chairwoman Helen Delich Bentley — quietly settled a feud between their two agencies the other evening in a private railway car in the nation's capital. They were guests of C.R. Barfos, vice president of the B & O Railroad, at a very private dinner. The two ladies cordially agreed to stop the feuding over which agency should set the rates for

Bayonets Alone Won't Bring Peace to Strife-Torn Ireland

By TOM CULLEN
BELFAST — (NEA) — Even homemade fire bombs have an especially vicious quality in Northern Ireland's religious conflict.

Over 500 such fire bombs were thrown in recent street battles between Protestants and Catholics in Belfast and Londonderry, according to police estimates. Some were hurled from the tops of tall blocks of flats onto the police themselves; others were slithered along the streets to set fire to police vehicles or to buildings.

Rioters found that they could extend their range to 60 yards by attaching a piece of cord around the neck of the milk bottle and thus swinging the Molotov cocktail over their heads before throwing it.

Strife-torn Northern Ireland is no nearer a solution to its bitter internal problems than it was when the religious rioting first broke out in the Bogside area of Londonderry on Aug. 12. The presence of British troops in Belfast streets is momentarily all that keeps Protestant and Catholic from leaping at each other's throat.

However, it will take more than British bayonets to prevent civil war in Northern Ireland.

Trouble From Partition The trouble dates back to the partition of Ireland by the British government in 1920. At that time, southern Ireland, which was 95 per cent Catholics, opted for independence and home rule, becoming eventually the Republic of Eire.

Northern Ireland, which is predominantly Protestant, agreed to remain loyal to the British crown. It was given a separate Parliament, but its finances remained firmly in the hands of the British government at Westminster.

It looked like an acceptable compromise 50 years ago, but partition of Ireland has, in reality, created an impossible situation. Although two-thirds of its 1.5 million population is Protestant, Northern Ireland feels itself threatened by the independent Republic of Eire to the south, and by the explosive birthrate of the Catholics in its midst.

From time to time, members of the Irish Republican Army, based in Dublin, have slipped across the border to harass the Northern Ireland authorities by hit-and-run skirmishes and bomb outrages.

Grievances Are Real The Catholic minority's grievances are against the Northern Ireland government are very real. Catholics are discriminated against in housing and jobs. Some town councils refuse to employ Catholics are discriminated against in housing and jobs.

Some town councils refuse to employ Catholics. Many Catholics are barred from voting in elections because of a property or household qualification. In Londonderry, for example, 8,800 out of the 31,000 registered voters — or one-quarter of the electorate — is thus disenfranchised.

In order to keep alive religious hatreds which go back 300 years, various secret societies flourish in Northern Ireland. Some of them take their inspiration from the Battle of Boyne in 1690, when William of Orange finally routed the Catholics in Northern Ireland.

Huge portraits of "King Billee" are painted on the gable ends of houses, and July 12, the anniversary of the Battle of Boyne, is the occasion for Protestants to take to the streets with their drum corps everywhere in the six northern counties.

Religious Hatreds From the religious hatreds of three centuries ago springs the Orange Order, biggest and most powerful of the secret societies. A majority of the Northern Ireland Parliament is Orangemen, as are 80,000 other people.

Many Northern Ireland Catholics, on the other hand, belong to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which likewise takes to the streets to stage counter-marches in defiance of the Orange Order.

When one adds to this picture the extremists of both varieties — the leftwing civil rights demonstrators and the rightwing followers of the Rev. Ian Paisley — one gets some idea of the explosive complexity which is Northern Ireland.

The spark which could well touch off the final conflagration is the Special Constabulary, the paramilitary Protestant army, which was called up recently to aid the regular police. These "B Specials," as they are called, are hated and feared by the Catholics, and with reason.

Armed with .303 rifles, they are a trigger-happy lot, who side openly with the worst of the Protestant street-brawlers. They are undoubtedly responsible for some of the killings in the Belfast and Londonderry riots. Their disbandment is being urged by all who are genuinely interested in peace in Northern Ireland.

A human rights convention for the whole of Ireland has been put forward by Quentin Hogg, the British Conservative party's chief spokesman on constitutional affairs, as a solution to the Irish question.

"People in the South of Ireland must realize that people in the North of Ireland want to remain British, and that the border was the best solution which our forefathers could find," declares Hogg.

"On the other hand, Catholics in Northern Ireland have legitimate grievances. I would suggest a perpetual friendship treaty between the three parties — the British and both Irish governments."

"A human rights convention should be written into the constitution concerned. Then, if a person north or south of the border has a legitimate grievance, he can apply to the courts of the country concerned."

It is either a friendship treaty or the homemade fire bombs which the Irish are busy stockpiling in the backyards of Belfast.

Uglification...

of all waste disposed of in this country.

Every cubic foot of garbage, it has been estimated, produces about 75,000 flies, not to mention rats, mice, mosquitoes, cockroaches, and other unlovely pests.

The great cities with their incinerators and "sanitary landfills" have progressed a little beyond the open dump disposal system. But the general "state of the art" remains about what it was 50 years ago. It has been said that the last real invention in waste disposal was the garbage can, and that the most recent improvement was putting an engine instead of a horse in front of the garbage truck.

Disposal means different things to different people. A housewife in a city apartment disposes of garbage effectively enough for her needs by shoving it down the incinerator shaft, or dumping it into a garbage can.

Garbage Men Strike
The waste disposal problem is most acute in the cities where 70 per cent of the national population dwells on 10 per cent of the land. The enormity of the problem is brought home to the household when the garbage men strike.

A few days without garbage collection make the streets unlivable by the fastidious. Many of the nation's smaller communities have no regular collection services.

Considering the health hazards involved, it may be a wonder even the larger ones do. According to Richard D. Vaughan of the Environmental Control Administration, garbage collectors "are engaging in one of the most dangerous occupations in existence."

Warns Airlines

LONDON (UPI) The City Council of the Royal Borough of Windsor, the area where Queen Elizabeth lives, warned Trans World Airlines and Pan American World Airways to quit flying directly over the Windsor Castle. The council said it was not opposed to the flight routes simply because the castle is the queen's home but because "this is an area of dense housing."

Fire Routs Family of 7 In Hyde Park

HYDE PARK

A family of seven fled to safety scantily clothed shortly after a neighbor awakened them to report their home was on fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett W. Entrup of Pinewoods Road, were asleep in their one-story home when Thomas D. Mangiarelli, a next door neighbor pounded on their door and told them their home was burning. Mrs. Mangiarelli had discovered the fire and while she summoned firemen her husband went to the aid of the Entrup family.

When firemen arrived flames were in the air, a fire official said. The occupants of the house had evacuated the residence without incident.

Chief Kenneth Underwood, who responded to an alarm with 40 volunteers, said the blaze apparently originated in the garage attached to the house and burned into the living quarters. The fire was reported under control in about 45 minutes but firefighters remained at the scene until after 6 a. m.

"The men made a wonderful stop," Chief Underwood said. Most of the damage resulted from dense smoke and intense heat that had built up before the blaze was discovered. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Sorrowful expressions are heard with blended emotions of shame and regret every time one hears of an assassination, murder or a violent sudden death . . . Panicky pleas and promises all too often pantomime identical words and letters heard so many, many times before. But the vicious repetitions continue. Human life these days seems to be a cheap commodity.

This attitude is a sad indictment of our times. The indictment is even more disgraceful in connection with traffic and highway deaths. Why—WHY is it that so many people fail to realize a steering wheel attached to three tons of automobile steel is far more dangerous, far more LETHAL than any trigger action gun ever invented? Why, WHY is it that people seem so indifferent to the horrible fact that in just the last thirty years—we repeat—in only THIRTY years, Americans have splashed more blood on highways and killed more people by automobile, than those killed on less bloodied battlefields in ALL our wars since 1776?

For your own protection, and for the safety of others, remind yourself of this every time you get behind the wheel, especially on weekends or holidays . . .

Woodstock Playhouse Closes Summer Season With Musical, 'I Do! I Do!'

The Woodstock Playhouse will close its summer season with the charming family musical "I Do! I Do!" starring Frances Wyatt and Stanley Grover. "I Do! I Do!" will open tonight and run through the Labor Day week-end including September 1st.

"I Do! I Do!" covers 50 years of a marriage, beginning from the time Agnes and Michael say "I do," at the turn of the century. "I Do! I Do!" is written by the successful team of Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt and is based on the play The Fourposter by Jan de Hartog. Mostly the story of Agnes and Michael is tender and delightful, but like any marriage occasionally some fur does fly.

Stanley Grover's Michael is robust and disarming. He is especially fun to watch as he tip-toes to tell us, "I love my wife..." Frances Wyatt's

Agnes is charming, but she is especially fun to watch cut loose as "Flaming Agnes!"

What is most important, Mr. Grover and Miss Wyatt endear us to their characters of Michael and Agnes. We identify with them, laugh with them, and in the end are touched by them.

"I Do! I Do!" is directed by Harold Baldridge; musical direction by Richard Start; sets by Harry Moss; lighting by Ken Billington; the delightful period costumes by Pam Dendy.

The stars of the show, Miss Wyatt and Mr. Grover, have an extensive list of credits. Miss Wyatt has starred in Sound of Music, 110 in The Shade, Music Man, The King & I, Guys and Dolls, Song of Norway and seven different engagements as Julie in Carousel. Mr. Grover has appeared on Broadway in featured roles in Mr.

President, Thirteen Daughters, Time Remembered and has chalked up over 1300 performances as Lt. Cable in South Pacific. They have been featured on TV programs: Miss Wyatt on Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, Voice of Firestone, Garry Moore, the Westinghouse and DuPont shows. Mr. Grover appeared on That Was The Week That Was. Miss Wyatt has recorded on the Epic and 20th Century Fox labels and recorded three albums with Fred Waring on Decca. Mr. Grover is featured on two RCA Readers Digest albums, "The Treasury of Great Operettas" and "Broadway's All Time Greats."

Opus 40 Sculpture to Be Open to Public as HUVREP Benefit

On Sunday, Aug. 31, local sculptor Harvey Fite's quarry and sculpture, located in High Woods, a tiny hamlet near Saugerties, will be open to the public from 12 noon until 5 p.m. The proceeds from this exhibition will go to the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre, a non-profit, tax-exempt regional theatre.

Opus 40 is a complex free-form "sculpture" which Mr. Fite is constructing within view of his house, using two tons of bluestone from his own quarry. The number 40 refers to the forty years it will take before the last rock is shifted into position. Today is almost two-thirds complete and covers six acres. He has been working on it, single-handedly, for 26 years. The quarry and sculpture has been recognized by numerous national publications and recently was the subject of a special article in the New York Times: "Once an abandoned quarry, it has been converted into an enticing environment of total sculpture—something to walk on, stroll through, sit upon and even swim in." The Times described it as sitting "like an ancient acropolis, surrounded by tall pines and white birch trees." It is a complex arrangement of gently graded ramps and terraces, bridges and moats, platforms and passageways, staircases and sunken swimming pools.

Since so many people have for so many years desired to view Mr. Fite's fantastic work, he and Mrs. Fite, a member of the Board of Directors of The Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre, decided with the Board that opening it to the public for an admission fee would be mutually beneficial to both the public and the theatre.

The quarry is generally not open to the public on special occasions such as this, as it is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fite.

Tickets may be obtained in advance by writing to PO Box 268, Woodstock, or on August 31st at the entrance to Mr. Fite's property. There will be ample free parking.

Issue Warning to Bankers On College Student Loans

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—New York State's banking industry maintains that bankers are showing a reluctance to participate in the program because of economic conditions that preclude them from acting decisively to meet an acute need for student loans. The number of applications of a significant drying up of loan money. It was learned, however, that some board members want to broaden the state's scholarship incentive and regents-scholarship awards to offset the tightening of loan money.

The statutory interest ceiling of seven per cent on student loans is "decidedly unattractive" when bankers can charge much more for other types of loans, the lawmaker said. He warned that there could be a "massive crisis" in college loans, the lawmaker said.

Meat Prices Reached Peak; Now Declining

Meat prices apparently reached their peak and now show some evidence of decline, according to the Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Wholesale prices are slightly easier on most kinds of meat and the consensus of opinion is now that retail prices will remain at current levels for a short period, then ease off slowly. This decline will eventually be noticeable at the retail counters but prices are definitely not expected to hit last year's levels.

Retailers will have a wide variety of beef cuts on special, with steak topping the list. Sirloin steak will be featured in the $1.07 to $1.29 range. T-bone and porterhouse $1.17 to $1.39, rib steak 99 cents to $1.09, chuck steak 45 cents to 59 cents, club steak around 99 cents, and round steak in western and central stores around 99 cents, in eastern stores $1.19 to $1.29. Rib roast will in the 79 cents to 89 cents range for second cut, and chuck roast from 59 cents to 69 cents, boneless 89 cents to $1.09. There will be some shoulder roasts 99 cents to $1.09, top round and rolled rump $1.09 to $1.19. Frankfurters will special mostly in the 69 cents to 79 cents range. There will also be some lower and some higher.

Pork features will be confined mostly to processed kinds such as cooked ham at 69 cents, center cut ham slices 99 cents, boneless ham $1.39, bacon in the 79 cents to 89 cents range, and smoked shoulder callis 45 cents. There will be a few specials on fresh pork shoulder steak at 79 cents, and also some canned ham specials at various prices.

There will be very few specials on the high priced veal and lamb cuts. Poultry will top the list in economy and will be widely featured. Whole fryers and broilers will special around 33 cents, split or quartered in the 35 cents to 39 cents range, legs 59 cents, and breasts 69 cents to 79 cents. There will also be a few turkey features in the 39 cents to 49 cents range.

Pete Zeeh Repeats In County Singles

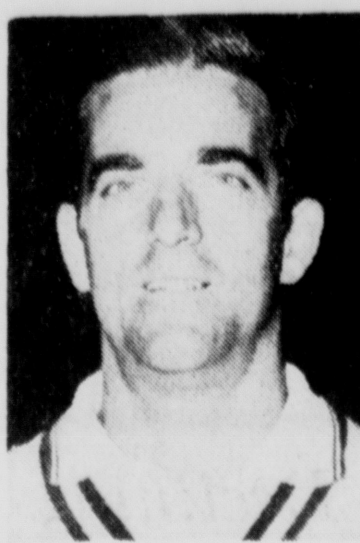

KINGSTON It was a brother's act Monday night at Forsyth Park as the Zeeh brothers, Pete and Bill, squared off in a match to decide the 1969 men's singles champion of the Ulster County Tennis Tournament. Pete, the defending champion, wore his younger brother down to take the title in two straight sets, 6-3, 6-0.

While the scores might indicate a slightly one-sided affair, it was not. Bill started the first game of the first set in auspicious fashion as he slammed four unreturnable shots past his brother, breaking his serve. He appeared to have complete mastery over his older brother and many of the spectators began whispering, "upset, upset."

There was to be no storybook finish to this round, however, as Pete recovered, breaking Bill's serve and taking the advantage. 2-1. Bill began to have trouble getting his first serves inside and, consequently, had trouble on the defense-end of his attack.

Pete displayed why he has become one of the most feared singles players in the Mid-Hudson Valley as he methodically took advantage of Bill's inability to correct his service and garnered the first set, 6-3.

At the beginning of the second set, it was obvious that Bill had changed his strategy on his serves, letting up a little on the first ones to make sure that they were going to fall in. This

PETE ZEEH

Although losing, Bill showed why he has become one of the leading threats to Pete's reign as Ulster County Champ and who knows, maybe next year.

The older Zeeh has at least one, possibly two matches left in the tourney, playing in partnership with Kitty Fowler, the women's singles champ for this year in the mixed doubles. Fowler and Zeeh meet Tish Meyers and Jerry Leatherman in a semi-final round tonight at 5:30. In another semi-final match, Mary Ann Fowler and Jim Boyd play Kitty Samuels and Dick Smith. The winners will meet at the same time Thursday night.

SAUGERTIES A. J. Scarselli's tied for the Met Division's Town Conference pennant with a 16-5 "stopper" win over Rotron. The victory forces a pennant play-off contest with Ted's Esso, slated for Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Rotron practically handed the game to the winners by issuing 14 walks, 10 wild pitches, two passed balls and by hitting one batter and committing five errors.

Tonight the league has scheduled the first triple header of the season. At 6:30 p.m., there is a Yankee Division match between Michael's Barber Shop and Southside Men's Club and at 8 p.m., Boo's Tavern and Helmsmoortel play a brace of five-inning tilts with third place on the line.

The line score:

RICK STAYS — Oakland Oaks new owner Earl Foreman (R) reads statement to newsmen that basketball star Rick Barry, represented by Attorney Bob Ruben (L) has no intention of moving with the ABA Oaks to Washington, D. C. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Cage Truce Is Shattered

NEW YORK (AP) — The name of the NBA player (Cunningham) still under contract signed by the Cougars.

Kennedy cited the "ABA negotiation committee's failure to advise the NBA of the possibility of Oakland moving to Washington during the negotiating sessions" as a further breach of good faith.

The Oakland franchise was sold to Earl Foreman and shifted to Washington last week. Gardner confirmed at a press conference in Greensboro Monday that Cunningham Monday the NBA player signed by the Cougars. Cunningham will not play with the Cougars until the 1971-72 season after his Philadelphia contract expires.

Kennedy said he knew of no other NBA player under contract negotiating with the ABA. He mentioned NBA players who had signed with ABA teams in the past but "still have not played in ABA."

In writing the book, he is collaborating with Dr. Milton A. Gabrielson, professor of recreation at New York University and a nationally recognized authority on recreation.

The book, expected to be completed next year, is entitled, "Planning and Maintenance of Recreational Pools." It is scheduled to be published next summer by Hoffman Publications of Washington, D. C.

Perry completed two graduate courses in the field of recreation at New York University. They were entitled, Organization and Administration of Recreation and Facilities Planning for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

In addition to his teaching responsibilities at UCCC, Perry coaches basketball and golf.

For Jets - Montreal A Night to Forget

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The New York Jets, bothered by slippery fingers, and the city of Montreal, troubled by empty seats, are licking their wounds. For both, Monday was a night to forget.

The Oakland Raiders, who lost to the Jets 27-23 in last year's American Football League championship, got their revenge as they whipped the World Champions 24-6.

The city of Montreal fumbled its first test as a future expansion site for American pro football. Only 8,212 fans turned out to see Detroit beat Boston 22-9 in an interleague game, leaving more than three-quarters of the 28,845-seat Expos' baseball stadium empty.

Oakland quarterback Daryle Lamonica completed two touchdowns passes while New York could manage only two field goals. Jets quarterback Joe Namath watched most of the game from the bench.

Before leaving late in the first quarter, Namath drove the Jets to the Oakland three, but Emerson Boozer fumbled and linebacker Don Connors recovered for the Raiders at the one.

The Jets bungled again in the last minute of play when Mike Battle fumbled a kickoff after Oakland scored a field goal. Oakland's George Buehler, a rookie from Stanford, recovered on the Jets' 25.

The Raiders led all the way but Lamonica, playing nearly three periods, had his problems. He had three interceptions. Veteran George Blanda took over at quarterback and boosted the score to 14-6 when he fired a 22-yard touchdown pass to running back Larry Todd. Blanda added a 16-yard field goal with 1:04 left to play.

Lamonica returned to the game in the last quarter, moved the ball to the New York six and then threw his final touchdown pass to rookie Drew Biele with 14 seconds left.

The Patriots and the Lions did little to inspire the Montreal fans. The Patriots gained just four yards during a lackluster first half. Detroit's Errol Mann kicked three of his five field goals during that time and Boston's Gino Cappelletti countered with a 37-yarder. Cappelletti booted a 31-yarder in the third period and Mann a 12-yarder before the Lions broke it open. The Lions' other score came on a two-yard touchdown run by Mel Farr.

Another Title For Mrs. Harris

KINGSTON Mrs. William D. (Chris) Harris of Port Ewen has added another Twaalfskill women's championship to her long list of fairway accomplishments.

The former Ulster County champion carded a pair of 83s for 166 and a 12-stroke margin over the runnerup, Mrs. Michael Groppuso, in the 36-hole medal competition. Mrs. Groppuso had 85-93.

Mrs. Harris joins Mrs. Harry Kennedy (Woodstock) and Mrs. Clifford Spiesman (Wiltwyck) as newly crowned area golf club women champions for 1969.

Earlier in the season, Mrs. George (Inger) Rusk won the Twaalfskill handicap championship.

Mrs. Burton Davis won the Class B championship with a score of 102-98-290. Runnerup was Mary Leach with 106-107-213.

Class C honors went to Mrs. Robert Graves, another Port Ewen golfer who posted 115-110-225. Second place went to Mrs. Potter with 131-117-248.

Isbell, Hutson Pace 'Stars'

NEW YORK (UPI)—It all started with Cecil Isbell and Don Hutson. The Green Bay Packers' famed passing combo of the late 1930s and early 1940s set the trend for the passing game which was to revolutionize pro football a decade later.

Isbell, who played from 1933 to 1942 with the Packers and Hutson, who played from 1935 to 1945, were among the players honored as the best players of the 1930s in "The First Fifty Years," a book celebrating the National Football League's first half century.

Besides Hutson, the ends named were Bill Hewitt, Wayne Millner and Gaynell Tinsley. The tackles were George Christensen, Frank Copes, Albert "Turk" Edwards, Bill Lee and Joe Stydahar, the guards were Grover "Ox" Emerson, Danny Fortmann, Charles "Buckets" Goldenberg and Russ Letlow and the centers honored were Mel Hein and George Svendsen.

The backs selected were Cliff Battles, Earl "Dutch" Clark, Beattie Feathers, Arnie Herber, Alphonse "Tuffy" Leemans, Johnny "Blood" McNally, Bronko Nagurski and Ken Strong.

Mrs. LeFevre Is Runnerup in C

KINGSTON Mrs. Lloyd LeFevre defeated Miss Dorothy Elston in the second replay to win second place in the Class C women's championship at Wiltwyck Country Club.

The two had tied for second place with 346 in the regular tournament behind the winner, Mrs. Robert Davenport, who posted 342.

The first playoff resulted in a tie, but Mrs. LeFevre prevailed in the second.

The Reds slipped by the Chicago Cubs 9-8 Monday in the National League's only game that jumped Cincinnati ahead of Atlanta into second place by percentage points in the NL West.

The loss also cut the Cubs' East lead over the idle New York Mets to 4½ games, two games on the loss side.

Washington had an easier time getting by Minnesota 7-3 Monday night in the only American League game, bringing idle Oakland 1½ games from the first place Twins in the AL West and putting them even in the all-important loss column.

The Reds used their home run power to build a 9-4 lead, but needed some fielding finesse to stop the Cubs with only four runs in the ninth inning.

With the bases loaded and out, Paul Popovich lined a 2-2 pitch off Pedro Ramos to right in the fourth. That's when Ra-field where Bobby Tolman made a fine running catch to end the game.

Tony Perez had ripped a two-run homer in the first for Cincinnati and Lee Maye belted his 34th in the fourth, but the score was deadlocked 3-3 before Perez hit his second of the game and 32nd of the season in the sixth to put the Reds ahead to stay.

Cincinnati ran it up with two more in the seventh and three in the ninth, two on Johnny Bench's double, but found themselves in a ninth inning bind after Jim Hickman's 15th homer for the Cubs in the eighth.

Gary Nolan, 45, walked the first two batters in the bottom of the ninth and Wayne Granger relieved and retired the next two. But then Ron Santo doubled in two runs, Ernie Banks singled, Hickman doubled in another, Paul Popovich lined a 2-2 pitch off Pedro Ramos to right in the fourth. That's when Ra-field where Bobby Tolman made a fine running catch to end the game.

Tony Perez had ripped a two-run homer in the first for Cincinnati and Lee Maye belted his 34th in the fourth, but the score was deadlocked 3-3 before Perez hit his second of the game and 32nd of the season in the sixth to put the Reds ahead to stay.

Cincinnati ran it up with two more in the seventh and three in the ninth, two on Johnny Bench's double, but found themselves in a ninth inning bind after Jim Hickman's 15th homer for the Cubs in the eighth.

Gary Nolan, 45, walked the first two batters in the bottom of the ninth and Wayne Granger relieved and retired the next two. But then Ron Santo doubled in two runs, Ernie Banks singled, Hickman doubled in another, Paul Popovich lined a 2-2

Dear Abby

Clothes Make Couple?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a junior executive in a large firm. Last summer one of the senior partners invited us to spend the week-end at his summer place at the lake. We went and were treated very graciously.

My husband told me that they are inviting us again this year, and here is my problem. Last year during the daytime we all sat around in bathing suits, robes, etc. However, on Saturday night they took us to a nearby nightclub which turned out to be very swanky. All the women (including my hostess) wore dressy dresses, and all had a summer shift and a sweater. Naturally I felt inferior and embarrassed, but I wasn't told in advance that I would need a dressy dress. Actually, I don't own any dressy evening clothes.

I don't want to offend this couple, but I don't want to go into debt to buy clothes for one week-end which I probably won't wear anywhere else. I hate to deny my husband this opportunity to socialize with his bosses, but what can I do? Don't suggest borrowing clothes. I'm not the type.

SIMPLE FOLKS: DEAR SIMPLE: All you need is a little imagination and a lot of self-confidence. No one expects you to compete in a fashion show. If you don't own a sewing machine, rent one and discover the joys of sewing. If you're all thumbs, surely you have a friend who isn't. If not, do a little bargain hunting. By all means, go, and have a good time. I admire your unwillingness to go into debt or to "borrow." And I'll bet if you were to wear the same summer shift you wore last year, nobody would know the difference or care.

DEAR ABBY: Now I've seen everything! Coffee dispensers that look exactly like filing cabinets!

KAY IN SEATTLE: DEAR KAY: Beautiful! They'll match up perfectly with lots of coffee drinkers who look exactly like office workers.

DEAR ABBY: Our son was killed in Viet Nam early in 1968. He left a widow (I'll call her Annie) and three small children. Annie was a good wife to our son and we love her very much.

We recently had a letter from Annie telling us that she plans to marry a captain in the air force. She wants us to come to the wedding, which will be a very small, and she has asked my husband to give the bride away. (Her own father is dead.) Annie's fiancé also wrote us a very nice letter, asking for our blessings.

My husband and I would like to go because we want to meet the man who will be the "father" to our son's children. The problem is our eldest daughter. She claims that there was something between Annie and this captain while our son was in Viet Nam, and she says if we attend the wedding it will show that we have no respect for our dead son's memory.

She has raised such a commotion that it has left me sick.

We can't believe that there is any truth to what she says about Annie. Under the circumstances, what would YOU do, Abby?

TORN: DEAR TORN: I would go to Annie's wedding.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman who got all upset because her husband called her other feminine names in his sleep. The solution is so simple I'm surprised she didn't think of it herself. This is what I did. About 22 years ago, when we had been married only 5 years, my husband called me "JOANIE" in his sleep. The following night I called him "SALVATORE." His name is "ERIC." We are Swedish. Thank you for your column.

FREYA: Everybody has a problem.

What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 10:30 a.m. WKNY-1490)

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUG. 27, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Try to remain behind the scenes as much as possible. Be considerate of those who might be handicapped. Visit those who share charitable interests. Be quiet within. Avoid crowds.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accent on friends, desires. You accomplish what you want through unorthodox methods. Some around you may make contradictory statements. Maintain sense of humor — it will help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Definite emphasis on authority, prestige and recognition. You are able to finish important project. You receive accolade, meaningful compliment. Show that you can accept responsibility.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What seemed far away proves to be close at hand — applies to situations and persons. You are especially creative today. Give full play to impressions, hunches.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You can get to the bottom of mysteries. Result might prove profitable. Concern with ESP, the occult and the unusual dominate. Your experiences today broaden horizons.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on partnership ties, publicity and marriage. You may find yourself dissatisfied with status quo. Patience is a virtue — which means plan carefully before taking positive steps.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Improve relations with associates and fellow workers. Not wise to shirk duties. What starts as unpleasant task could actually prove rewarding. Know this and act accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Day features change, greater freedom, pride could come through achievement of young person. Be open to experience. Shake off tendency to be set in ways. Instead, be flexible in views.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Past experience should be utilized. Especially true in dealing with home furnishings, family desires. Be co-operative without breaking budget resolutions. You can do it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Avoid seeing certain situations through rose-colored glasses. Truth indeed will set you free. Accent today on calls, messages and promises involving in-laws.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your abilities are backed by those who can supply what is needed. Be confident. State requirements in frank manner. Obtain hint from CAPRICORN message.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You get rid of burden. New opportunities present themselves. Full moon in your sign highlights your assets. Use them wisely. Indications continue favorable for new contacts, projects.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are health-conscious, capable of helping others to aid themselves. By next month there could be decided change in domestic environment.

A letter from Montreal discusses baseball and the Montreal "Expos" for awhile and then turns to luck in duplicate. It seems that in a recent duplicate our correspondent arrived at a normal four-spade contract. Bridge players have been brought up on the rules of "cover an honor with an honor" and "second hand high," but this was a time for neither. All East had to do would be to let dummy hold that first heart trick.

After that play South would be condemned to defeat. He could set up the diamonds but would have no way to get to dummy to lead the fourth and would wind up looking for

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TEARS FOR MIKE: (Q.) my feelings are very strong for Mike. At a movie, if he doesn't talk to me, I start being afraid he is mad at me, and I cry. When he came back from vacation I cried. Any time he gets impatient with me I cry. I try to keep the tears back but I can't. What can I do? What's wrong? What does he think of me always crying? Please help.—Cry Baby in Nebraska.

(A.) You are spoiling your fun, and Mike's, by being afraid you'll lose him. That isn't wise. If you were wise you would be glad for each time you have with him, and show him with smiles, not tears, how glad you are.

So, be cheerful around him. Quit worrying about tomorrow and be thankful for today. If you don't, and keep making the tears, you'll surely lose him. Then you'll really have something to cry about.

USED: (Q.) We ride a school bus. Some of our friends on the bus used us last year. They'll be back this year. We like them and want them for real friends. How can we get them to stop using us but still be our friends?—L and K in Oklahoma.

(A.) There is only one treatment for friends who use you. Be cool to them and refuse to fall for their tricks. Sometimes this works and you can resume the friendship on a sounder basis. Sometimes it doesn't work and you have to find new friends.

If these people who have been using you do straighten up when you give them the cool treatment, be careful not to warm up too quickly. If you do, they may start using you all over again.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

'Mannix' Raps the Pressure

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television's last surviving private eye, "Mannix," will keep his gun loaded and his fists clenched and bare during a season when man-to-man physical confrontations are definitely out of style.

Mike Connors, the star of the CBS series that soon will start its third season, believes that a little action can go a long way but that the audience will feel cheated and unhappy without any.

"There are few enough action series left," he ruminates glumly as he munches a ham and cheese sandwich during a lunch break.

"But we will still have fights when they seem necessary—it is logical when the criminal is about to be apprehended. And we'll have some gun-play, too," Wayne's wildest fights on the screen," he continued. "He was what's the movie? Can I watch in good fighting shows about a clean-cut American who was de-fending the right. He was a strong man."

"If we're going to outlaw violence, let's really do it. Let's get rid of football, boxing, hockey and wrestling. That's all based on violence and most of it, like the blood spilled, is real."

Connors said that of course he believes that television shows should be in good taste—two words which are hard to define—but that he deplores "letting a few men impose their standards and tell you what you can see."

Parents, he said, are responsible for their children's viewing habits. He has two of his own, and said that a routine question from his 10-year-old son and 9-year-old daughter is "Pop, what's the movie? Can I watch it?" He often says no and makes it stick.

"But on the other hand, I don't want my kids to grow up believing that there is nothing destructive in the world. I want them to know that there is good and bad in the world, that you can be hurt physically, that guns can kill you, that drugs are bad for you, that not everyone means well."

ABC had second thoughts about NBC's double specials on Sept. 22, and postponed the pre-mieres of two of its big series, "The Survivors" and "Love, American Style" until Sept. 29. Nobody, not even Lana Turner, wants to battle Bob Hope and two dozen top comedians followed by Flip Wilson.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The 4,000-year history of the chair has seen it take on many shapes and designs. An early American contribution to man's sedentary comfort is the rocking chair, which most authorities believe was invented by Benjamin Franklin. The World Almanac says. It is thought that Franklin built a rocker around 1760, to which he later affixed a wide arm for reading and writing, and a fan operated by the rocking.

Paltz Village Trustees Blast State for Traffic Signs

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ

The subservience of local government to both state and federal policy makers was the underlying theme of much of the discussion at the regular meeting of the New Paltz Village Board here Monday night.

In separate actions, the board blasted the State of New York for erecting towering traffic signs in the heart of the village and then went on to chastise the federal government for withholding approval for the construction of a sewage treatment plant.

Trustee Harold Phillips said that the recently erected traffic signs represented a "ridiculous" inconvenience to the residents of the village.

The signs, which were set up for the benefit of motorists on state highways, first appeared on Main Street, here, about two weeks ago. Main Street also happens to be part of state highway 299.

Trustee Phillips said that he "took exception to the fact" that state officials erected the signs without first conferring with the Village Board or the New Paltz Village Planning Board.

"I think it is only fair," he said, "afterall, we have to approach them before we can make any changes on Main Street."

Later during the meeting, New Paltz Mayor Henry Dubois, explained to the board that a proposed plan to construct a secondary sewerage plant on Huguenot Street, in the village, was being held back pending approval by the federal government.

Annoyed by the federal government's inaction, Mayor Dubois said that while only one per cent of the project was to be financed by Washington, the million dollar sewerage plant could not be constructed until federal approval was granted.

At this point Trustee, William George pointed out that since the project was approved by the board, in May, the increase in cost has already exceeded the federal contribution.

An additional bit of irony to this particular dilemma is that the project itself was quickly approved, despite strong public protest, because village officials were informed at that time that federal funds would be withheld unless "quick approval" was made.

According to Dubois, initially the federal government was going to absorb 30 per cent of the cost, but subsequently this was whittled down to one per cent.

The state which will subsidize 59 per cent of the cost, has already approved the project.

In other action at the Monday night meeting, the board appointed William Weston to the three man village board of assessors. Weston is also chairman of the village planning board.

Loiter Law Still Unresolved

NEW PALTZ

The touchy questions surrounding the Village of New Paltz' controversial loitering ordinance have still not been resolved, however, neither of ficials here nor the young people who brought the issue to prominence, earlier this summer, seem to care.

The young people challenged the so-called "peace and good order" ordinance on the grounds that it was "arbitrary and unconstitutional," following a number of arrests. This challenge was put before the New Paltz Village Board at its June and July regular meetings and culminated in a public hearing which attracted about 40 people.

At the hearing held earlier this month a substitute ordinance, which was much more specific, was proposed for consideration by the Village Board. However, at the regular meeting of the Village Board here Monday night, the question of the ordinance was not even brought up during the proceedings.

Following the meeting, though, New Paltz Mayor, Henry Dubois, told The Freeman that the board was delaying consideration of the matter, because the village attorney, William Gruner "couldn't be here."

Mayor Dubois went on to say that when the matter does come up, the board will base its consideration upon the testimony rendered during the public hearing, which he characterized as "very helpful."

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the young people, indicated that "the kids were not concerned so much about the ordinance as about the attitude of the police."

Standing among a gathering of young people at the street corner where this summer many of the arrests were made, the spokesman who chose to remain anonymous, added "if they turn the heat back on, we will resume our protest."

Red Hook Adds 4 Teachers

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

Four full-time teachers were appointed at the regular meeting of the Red Hook School Board Monday night.

They are Charles DuBois, a secondary mathematics and science teacher who is a Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute graduate; Phyllis Smith, a second grade teacher, graduate of the College of St. Rose, present student at New Paltz, with experience teaching kindergarten.

Also Phoebe Swope, a music teacher with experience at Germantown Central who was a student at Syracuse University and is presently working on her masters at New Paltz and James Patrick Cauldwell, a graduate of Marist College and postgraduate student at New Paltz who has taught at St. Mary's of Poughkeepsie. Cauldwell will replace Mr. Canpisi in secondary social studies for a year.

Miss Linda Greco was approved as a 60 per cent Spanish teacher, who will also teach part time at Pawling.

Bus driver appointments of Wilfred Alexander and Aldo Cerrilli were made.

The rate of pay for substitute teachers, under discussion for some time, was resolved by keeping the same system now in use, that of paying one-two hundredth of a year's base salary per day, or $35.

Land for School Addition

A property transaction was culminated to purchase the land necessary for the construction of the Mill Road School addition this fall, with the school paying $20,500. The architect will be present at the next board meeting to explain the progress made and answer questions.

The resignation of Mrs. Judith Howland, teacher of grade one, and Mrs. Margaret Potts, math and science, were accepted with regrets by the board.

A promising situation with continuation of tutoring Bard College students was announced by District Principal Russell Keefe. He said that discussion with Dr. Miller of Bard might lead to an extension of the tutoring process of Red Hook students, as it is now conducted on a formal basis with such colleges as Marist and New Paltz. While there is no education major at Bard, some students wish to pursue careers in teaching.

A favorable report on a kindergarten forum for parents and children was given; about 160 people attended in a "get acquainted" session.

A Title One project for remedial reading, including psychological and psychiatric testing, will be re-instituted this fall with a grant of $17,000 through the state.

'Typing Club'

An application to begin a "typing club" by Rosemary Fisher of Red Hook was looked upon with approval by the board. "The idea is to provide training in typing to those students who desire it and already have a full class schedule," said Keefe. "This will take place during the activity period, and is just what I personally feel is a good use."

Registration for adult education will take place Sept. 15 and 17. The program will begin Sept. 24 and 29. It was termed "highly successful" by all those making use of it; several high school equivalency diplomas were recently awarded.

A general staff meeting will be held Sept. 2, with opening day set for Sept. 3. There will be a total of 120 professional staff, and 220 on the payroll all together.

Petulia Hamiwka was approved as a teacher's aide in the Audio Visual department.
